"Islander" Begs to Differ With the Orators of Saturday Night's Meeting.

The Colonies can Protect Their Property Outside of the Territorial Waters.

"ISLANDER" ON THE SEIZURES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—All the speakers at the meeting on Saturday evening seemed to agree on blaming the apathy of the Imperial government for allowing the Behring sea seizures without obtaining redress. This is the correct ground to take, but when the assertion is made that Canada cannot protect its commerce in those waters, that it has no power to do so outside of its territorial waters, Islander at least begs to differ from the speakers.

Before the American revolution, colony ships protected the colonies, commerce by the use of letters of marque and reprisal, issued by the colonial governors. It was by a colony ship commanded by Capt. Samuel Argall that the French of Acadia were taught that the New England vessels were not to be harrassed. It was colony ships which transported the New England troops to the first capture of Louisburg. Colonial governors issued these letters down to 1815, and their power in this respect has never been withdrawn. The Governors General of Canada, previous to 1867, were high military and naval officers, having the powers of captains, generals and vice admirals, and it was so stated in their commissions. I am quite sure the present viceroy has the same authority to use Canadian land and sea forces to protect Canadians and their commerce. The Canadian government can authorize any private vessel to carry great guns, and to use them to protect themselves on the high seas.

The contention that colonies have not the rights and powers of mother countries is opposed to the teachings of history. When Louis XIV. threatened to conquer Holland, and it seemed he would effect his purpose, the brave Hollanders determined to emigrate en masse to Java and make Batavia the capital of their empire. Again, when Napoleon drove the Portuguese government and navy to America, where the commissions of the Portuguese men of war illegal, because they were dated at Rio instead of at Lisbon? Our governors represent the sovereign, and every Canadian man and every Canadian ship can be used to fight the sovereign's enemies. This is true in time of war, and pirates in time of peace can be caught by Canadian ships and hung. One of the duties of the Indian navy, or old Bombay Marine, was to protect Indian commerce from pirates, and most of these pirates were authorized to so act by the native potentates, about the Indian seas. Had the governor of Bombay powers which our governors have not? I think not.

The honor of the British flag is as dear to Canadians as it is to those who live in the United Kingdom. The history of Canada shows this, and shows moreover that colony ships from Nova Scotia and Lower Canada and Newfoundland assisted the royal navy in protecting the commerce of these colonies in the old time. All our ships were armed in those days to resist aggression in war or in peace, and they can be authorized by the Canadian government to carry arms now to resist seizure on the high seas.

I do not write this to advocate stern measures to be taken by Canada, but simply to show that the contention that Canada cannot protect her people on the high seas near her coasts is not historically correct.

Hudibras says:

> "'Tis the good old rule, the simple plan
> That they shall take, who have the power
> And they will keep, who can."

ISLANDER.

EDUCATIONAL BLUNDERING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Can you explain why the Hon. John Robson did not build an addition to the Wellington school during the holidays, and furnish an additional teacher? In the official report for June last the number on the roll of the junior room was 150, of whom 102 actually attended during the month in a room where fifty might be comfortably seated. During this month of August 148 have actually attended, the highest number any day was 125, and the daily average was 109. Is it not criminal to pack 125 dear little innocent children into a room 20x30 with seats for 60, but most of them so made that the children cannot get their knees under the desks; and that there was a possibility of 148 having to be stowed away in that style day after day for three weeks? There is no relief yet, because, forsooth, nothing can be done until Mr. Pope returns. Does John Robson imagine that it will work its own cure, i. e., that so many will remain away through sickness and otherwise, that there will be a possibility of crowding the others into the seats? Will the Colonist explain the Christian principle on which the Premier treats the Wellington people so differently from West Victoria, and why in a case of such urgency nothing can be done until Mr. Pope returns. Yours truly, J. N. MUIR.

Wellington, Aug. 30, 1889.

THE SEWERAGE SCHEME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I beg to say that with regard to the sewerage scheme that is about to be carried out in Victoria by Mr. Pickering, that I am now perfectly satisfied with the work that is going to be done. Of course Mr. Pickering has modified the working of the scheme at his own suggestions, to meet the wishes of all, as there was no other alternative left open to him. With regard to incurring a heavy bill for damages, I am doing nothing of the kind at present, but would sooner consult his worship, the mayor, and aldermen before taking such a step, fully believing that they will do what is right in the matter on behalf of the ratepayers and themselves as a body of gentlemen. Having carried out eighteen sewerage schemes large and small, seven separate systems and nine combined—and being responsible for the working of the same for 1½ and 2 years after completion, I ought to be in a position to know something about the work.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Incidents Connected With Dissatisfied Wage Earners.

London, Sept. 3.—The dock companies seem better satisfied with the aspect now of affairs. They have increased the number of men at work, composed of strikers who have resumed their old places, and new men. It is said there is a split among the strikers and that small committees have been appointed looking to the abandonment of the strike. Rochester coal wharfers and barge men visited a large number of vessels in the river Medway to-day and forcibly compelled the men at work thereon to cease operations.

The situation of the strike was unchanged early this morning and neither side made any advances towards a settlement. Stevedores complain they have not received their share of the relief fund. The strikers generally are firm. Three thousand tailors struck to-day, and paraded the streets.

The principal shipping companies have demanded permission of the dock companies to load and unload their ships with their own men. The directors will make reply to the application as soon as possible. The success of the Hyde Park meeting on Sunday has greatly encouraged and inspired the strikers, and they have entered upon the work to-day with redoubled vigor. The organization is being improved and better methods adopted for the collection of relief supplies, and their distribution among the strikers' families.

Negotiations with wharfingers and shipping merchants have been resumed, but no further proposals have been made to the dock companies by the strikers.

The actual number of men of other trades in London, who have struck work in sympathy with the dock laborers, is fully 14,000.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Gist of the Sermon Preached on Sunday Last.

The services in the Pandora Street Methodist Church were conducted in the morning by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Starr, and in the evening by the Rev. Mr. Dowie, of Melbourne, Australia. The Dr. spoke most earnestly and fervently on the healing virtue of the heavenly tree, founded on the text contained in Revelations, 22, 1 and 2, that ends with the words: "The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations." Mrs. Dowie also assisted in the service.

Rev. Mr. Starr's discourse was on the subject of confession. "If we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

The purpose John had in view, said the Rev. Mr. Starr, in writing this epistle was to enable Christians to become joyful.

Fulness of joy, the Scriptures teach us, is the designed end of the Christian's faith. Notwithstanding this fact, with the majority, religion is joylessness instead of joyfulness. The music of a great many seems to be that of a funeral dirge rather than that of a triumphal march. Perhaps it is the fault of their teaching, or the way they were brought up. But the reason that stands out taller than any other is the presence of sinfulness. There can be no fulness of joy where there is fulness of sin. About the toughest job any man has undertaken is to be good and carry in him a bad heart. The cleansing necessary to joyfulness is cleansing from all unrighteousness. This implies that the first thing required is pardon. When a man is first made conscious of the fact that he is pardoned, that his peace is made with Almighty God, this joy is overwhelming.

I want you to notice the condition of the full cleansing in order to get full joy. People are ready enough to confess their sinfulness—their depravity.

"Of course, we have sinned—who hasn't?" they say.

The trouble is they are not ready to confess those sins that emanate from this sinfulness which goes to make up their total depravity—the actions that grow out of sinfulness.

"Well," says some one, "To whom shall we confess?" "Is it not sufficient to confess to God?"

It depends on the nature of your sin. There are sins of yours which are against your brother as well as against God. In that case, it is not sufficient to confess to God only. "Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." If the devil can keep people from the joy of the Gospel, he is going to do it. One of the ways he does it is to give them lock-jaw. He makes a person who has committed a wrong feel and say, "Before I confess to that man, I'd bite my tongue out." When a wrong has been committed, is there anything more honorable than to make an open confession to God and man?

Confession, again, in the last analysis, may be summed up in the words—"quit it"—make a clean renunciation of your sins.

If you will set about immediately to comply with the teaching of this text, and confess your wrong-doings to both God and man, I know some of you this morning would be pretty busy. Can you imagine the joy, though, that will be packed into the next hour, just as soon as this is done?

"If you don't believe me, just try it."

Strikers Resolve to Continue the Great London Lock-Out—Relief Coming in.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Admiral Heneage's treatment of the German bark Hustede in Esquimalt harbor is regarded here as a rather serious piece of business. It was built in 1836 at the request of the Albany & Utica railway company, now the New York Central, and for a number of years was a restaurant station of the road. A JOURNALIST DEAD.

New York, Sept. 3.—John A. Greene, a well known newspaper man, died this morning at his residence, Bay Side, Long Island. He had been sick in bed for the past three months, suffering from an affection of the liver. Greene was at various times employed on the New York Sun, Times and World and at one time was managing editor of the Star. He was also employed a few years ago by the San Francisco Chronicle.

LABOR DAY IN NEW YORK.

New York, Sept. 3.—Yesterday was labor day and was generally observed. Business was almost wholly suspended and the streets wore a Sunday-like appearance. The weather is cool and clear and extraordinary efforts were made by various labor organizations in the city to fittingly celebrate the day. At an early hour in the morning labor and trade organizations of all branches assembled at their various headquarters and marched to the starting point of the great labor parade, Washington Square. The parade started shortly after 10 o'clock, and some 20,000 wage earners moved along Washington Square into Fifth Avenue. The men were loudly applauded as they marched through various up town streets, which were gaily decorated with flags, bunting, etc.

NAVAL.

Plymouth, Sept. 3.—The United States war ship Dolphin is obliged to go on the dry dock here for repairs. The Dolphin is under orders to join the United States war ship Enterprise for a cruise in Irish waters, and arrived here last week from the Mediterranean.

O'BRIEN CHEERED.

3000 LOOMS STOPPED.

DESTITUTE STRIKERS.

London, Sept 3.—Although contributions are coming in liberally, there is much suffering in the homes of the strikers. It costs $10,000 per day to feed them.

AN OPINION ON THE BEHRING SEA.

London, Sept. 3.—The Observer in an editorial on the Behring Sea question says: "An American company could not buy what Russia had not to sell, namely, the right of exclusive property in Behring Sea. The most unanswerable protest against Russia's claim to Behring Sea was issued by President Pierce's administration.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

Paris, Sept. 3.—The Rt. Hon. William Ewart Gladstone arrived here yesterday morning.

STILL ON STRIKE.

London, Sept. 3.—Lower Hill strikers, at a meeting this morning decided to continue the strike. It was announced that donations to the relief fund were received from France, Germany and Switzerland. John Burns to-day acknowledged the receipt of £3,000.

Threats have been made that if Sir Donald Currie took his vessels to Southampton, steps will be taken to prevent a single ship from unloading. The men engaged in unloading vessels in the Medway at Rochester, were attacked by strikers and the police were called upon for protection.

THE SITUATION.

London, Sept. 3.—A deputation of prominent ship officers, headed by Sir Donald Currie, called upon a committee representing the dock owners at noon to-day and again urged the adoption of a proposal submitted by the ship-owners yesterday for a settlement of the strike, which was that the ship-owners should engage and pay men. Mr. Norwood, chairman of the joint dock committee, replied that the company could not accede, but were willing to further discuss all questions with a committee of shipowners. Sir Donald Currie said he regretted that the dock company could not give the owners a definite answer, and expressed his willingness to submit the question for discussion to joint committees of the dock companies and ship owners. He requested that the companies express their views in writing, to be submitted to the shipowners at a meeting which would be held late in the day. Norwood assented. This decision destroys all chance of arranging differences between the strikers and dock owners for to-day.

TEN MEN STRIKE.

Liverpool, Sept. 3.—Dock laborers to-day demanded an advance of one shilling per day in wages. The demand was refused and ten men quit work.

"JACK THE RIPPER" AGAIN.

London, Sept. 3.—The city was startled this morning by the announcement that an old man, whose identity at present is unknown, stabbed two prostitutes in the central part of the city for declining to accompany him. There is great excitement over the affair and "Jack the Ripper" scare again prevails.

IN SCATHING TERMS.

Dundee, Sept. 3.—The chairman of the Trades Union Congress in session here to-day, in his address to the delegates, dealt in scathing terms on the discontent wrought among the working classes owing to the uncertainty of work and unequal distribution of fruits of labor.

THE QUEEN'S FLUENCY.

Edmund Yates Dilates on the Queen's Linguistic Abilities.

New York, Sept. 3.—Edmund Yates' London cable to the Tribune says the Welsh papers express much pleasure at the Queen having spoken Welsh on more than one occasion. The Queen appreciates the value of even the most elementary knowledge of the tongues of the many people over whom she reigns. Five or six years ago she began to study Hindoostanee assiduously and her knowledge of the language is now considerable. She can converse and read and write in it with a good deal of fluency. The Indian servants whom the Queen has about her always speak it, and one of them gives her lessons. While the Duke and Duchess of Connaught were in England nothing else was spoken during certain hours of the day, and the duchess, who is a very fair Hindoostanee scholar, acted as interpreter between the Queen and her master whenever a hitch occurred. There can be no possible doubt that the visit of the Queen to Wales will mark an epoch in the history of that principality.

The order of knighthood, conferred upon Sir Evan Morris, is universally popular with all classes of the community.

The Queen was delighted with the order displayed in the proceedings at Wrexham. She said many complimentary things to Sir John Puleston, who was honored by special summons to an audience and to luncheon. It is now generally known that the idea of exploring a coal mine originated with the Princess Beatrice. Nothing could be more popular than this practical evidence of sympathy with the miners, who crowded the pit mouth and greeted the royal party with deafening cheers as they emerged from darkness in theorthodox pit attire and with very black faces. The Queen spoke with much enthusiasm of the healthy air and bright atmosphere of Wales. By a happy coincidence the Queen's visit to Sir Theodore and Lady Martin, at Bryn-Theisill, occurred on the anniversary of their wedding day, and what was more appropriate still, this was also the birthday of the Prince Consort, to whose posthumous fame Sir Theodore has largely contributed. One of the objects in the house which the Queen examined with interest was a bust of herself, modelled when she was but eight years of age. After a lapse of more than sixty years, it still bears a striking resemblance to Her Majesty. The Queen signed her name in Lady Martin's album and greatly increased the interest always attaching to the Royal sign manual by appending the short and touching inscription, "His Birthday." During his stay in Hamburg, the Prince of Wales went over one day to Darmstadt and placed flowers on the grave of his sister, Princess Alice. The Prince of Wales is much better for the Hamburg cure and seems to be taking everything more quietly this year. His leg is much improved and he is barely lame now. He sees a good deal of the Empress Frederick.

Princess Christian is still with her parents. She rarely shows herself in Hamburg, spending all her time with her sister.

Everyone in Suffolk is in a flutter over the rumor that has got out that the Duke of Fife is looking for another house, the Castle Rising which he now rents from the trustees of the late Mr. Greville being too small. It was large enough for him in his bachelor days, but he may want a larger one now, although Castle Rising is conveniently near Sandringham, which makes it more advantageous than a larger house further away.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.)

James Hart, charged with being a vagrant, was sent up to the common jail, where he will labor for three months for the good of the public.

Joe, an Indian, paid $5 into the city treasury for the privilege of being in a state of intoxication.

John Miller, who was charged with inducing a sailor of H. B. M.'s navy to desert, pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay $80; in default to be imprisoned in the common jail for two months.

Chas. Enoch, charged with trying to desert from H. B. M.'s navy, was handed over to the naval authorities.

Galloway Stock.

Mr. McInnes, of Calgary arrived in Kamloops last week with a car load of Galloway cattle, the herd comprising 11 males and 9 females. The cattle were destined for Ashcroft. It is claimed for the Galloway cattle that they are more hardy than any other breed known on the ranges excepting the Highland. The most severe weather during the winter season does not deter the animals from hunting their feed, and unless from hoarse frost no shelter need be provided for them. It is the intention of Mr. McInnes to introduce the Galloways on the British Columbia ranges, he believing they will do better and give more universal satisfaction to cattlemen than the stock now raised.

B. C. RIFLEMEN

Are Eligible to Compete with the Dominion Association.

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Rifle Range, Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The New Westminster rifle team arrived here yesterday morning, having just come in time to reach the Rideau rifle range and fire in the McDougall match. Although not succeeding in getting a prize, they made good shooting, two of them being counted out. Notwithstanding the telegram from Victoria to a Vancouver paper, stating that they were not eligible to shoot in the Dominion Rifle Association, it was decided that they were. They intend entering for all matches and will no doubt be heard from. The weather is excellent but a little too bright for fine shooting. The team is composed of Capt. Scoullar, Cotton, Chamberlain and Proud.

Lord Stanley will arrive home on the 11th and goes to British Columbia on the 14th.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

The Amities Decide to go to Kamloops—General Notes.

At a meeting of the Amity base ball club last evening, it was decided to go to Kamloops for the great base ball tournament which opens on the 10th inst.

Mr. Knox, of Port Townsend, has signified his willingness to act as umpire for the series of games to be played there.

A large amount of work is being put on the Caledonian grounds, Kamloops, to get the diamond and field in shape for the games during tournament week.

The Kamloops newspaper harangues the Kamloops team to go in and win, etc.

SEARLE-O'CONNOR.

Apropos of the great sculling match between Searle and O'Connor, to be decided on the Thames next Monday, and which is now attracting local attention, Wallace Ross in a letter to a New York friend says: "Searle is not by any means overrated, and he, no doubt, is just as fast in a shell as the Australians claim, but he will have to row faster than he ever rowed on the Paramatta or Clarence rivers to beat O'Connor, who is faster and can stay longer when rowing a racing clip than I supposed. I have seen money bet on races, but never was there any oarsman who had so much money behind him as Searle."

THE HOSE TEAM.

The Victoria hose team were out this morning at 6 o'clock preparing themselves for the Tacoma tournament. The boys are practising with earnestness and will endeavor to obtain a portion of the tempting prizes offered.

LACROSSE.

There will be an interesting game of lacrosse on Saturday afternoon at the Hill, commencing at 3 p.m., between members of the club chosen by the secretary and vice-president. Every member is requested to be on the field in order to give the boys a good practice. There will be a full practice on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

BENEFIT.

A benefit is to be given on Saturday night to Jack Connors, the losing contestant in the recent Quinn-Connors wrestling match. As Connors is considerably out over the result of the two matches, a benefit just now would be very acceptable. Several local people will join in making the entertainment a good one.

THE LONDON STRIKE.

Recent dispatches intimate that a collision can scarcely be longer deferred between the London strikers and the police. Hunger will force the strikers to return to work or fight. The result of the collision between the strikers and the authorities is not open to doubt. The former must be worsted. It is in the power of this hungry and exasperated mob, however, to do harm. Despite the vigilance of the police and military, it would be possible for the mob to inflict tremendous damage. In view of what might occur should the dock companies continue to maintain their present attitude, ordinary prudence would require that the strike be made the subject of official inquiry. The demands of the strikers seem reasonable, although we have not heard the other side of the story. We have been told, it is true, that the dock companies cannot afford to pay more than they have been doing, but this evidence remains unsupported. We are not required to accept any more of this statement than we like until the companies prove that they cannot increase the pay of the dock yard laborer. If government should take evidence in the matter we might regard the decision an impartial one. If the dock yard companies are paying all they can afford, the government should sustain them; while on the other hand, if the companies are playing the "sweating" system, as we may not unreasonably suspect, they should be compelled to come to equitable terms with their overworked, half-starved employees.

TRIAL OF BOULANGER.

The trial of the Boulangerists, Gen. BOULANGER, Count DILLON and M. ROCHEFORT, has found the triumvirate guilty of conspiracy, of treasonable attempts against the state, and of the misappropriation of the public funds. Formidable crimes these, taken collectively or separately, while that of the punishment is equally formidable, not unlike that of EDMUND DANTES imprisonment in a fortress, though of course as the channel flows between the judges and these state criminals, the sentence can have none but a negative effect. According to the London Times, the English, among whom Gen. BOULANGER and his confederates now reside, may be excused, on account of their want of familiarity with treason trials, for thinking the whole business has been "curiously managed." The senate was converted into a high court of justice. It met; the evidence printed and very voluminous was laid before a committee sitting in secret session, and then the public sitting began. The Procureur General, M. QUESNAY DE BEAUREPAIRE, who was appointed after the prosecution was determined on, his predecessor having resigned because he would not prosecute, made his great opening speech lasting two days. Then came a short discussion of the Court's competency, and the withdrawal of the 51 members of the Right. There were no witnesses called, the constitution not permitting to the High Court what is called a debat contradictoire. The Court simply discussed the indictment, as presented to it in the speech of the Procureur-General, and very rapidly gave the decision which we have described. Thus, in less time than it often takes in England to decide a second-rate civil action, the great French state trial is over, and the political career of the adventurous General is pronounced to be treason against the Republic.

The question of what is legitimate opposition to government, and what passes beyond the bounds and becomes treasonable should rest, it would be supposed, on certain specific laws, but it is commonly decided rather, according to the genius and habits of mind of a given country than on grounds which all the world will recognize. In a despotic state all opposition is treason. In a semi-despotic state like Germany opposition is generally denounced as semi-treasonable, and is punished with contempt, denunciation, and the severest forms of social ostracism. In young countries which enjoy the forms of freedom after being long despotically governed, like Servia and Bulgaria, a political crisis often means the crushing and the imprisonment of political opponents. In France, as befits a country which has had so rich an experience to revolutions, the only chance for the duration of any form of government seems to be that attempts to change it would be severely repressed. Hence the articles of the constitution under which General BOULANGER has been tried, and the extremely small chance that a defendant in his position, present or absent, should be acquitted. If we examine the indictment against Gen. BOULANGER and consider what has been proved, we shall only discover that he has been convicted of being an ambitious adventurer, of lax morals, and of not being at all particular as to the friends he made nor the precise use he made of the public funds. It seems it was BOULANGER's intention to exchange a parliamentary for a consular Republic, with a consul appointed for life, ministers responsible only to him, and a Council of State to prepare the laws on which the Chamber would vote. Of course it is not difficult to imagine the outcome of a consulate of this description, but was it treasonable in BOULANGER to attempt to effect it? According to the philosophy of the Times, "if by the revision provided by the constitution itself, then it would have been legitimate; if by forcible or corrupt means, then illegitimate. The court has made up its mind that the means which the General used, or tried to use, or intended to use, were the corruption of the soldiers and the misuse of public money. An impartial reader of the speech would hesitate to say that the very scanty evidence of the former was sufficient to bring home so grave a charge, but that the second was pretty conclusively proved." We are far from saying, continues the Times, that the Republic has not been justified in using the arms placed in its hands by the constitution to strike down BOULANGER. The interesting question now is, how will the country take this condemnation?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

"Christian Science," according to the Popular Science Monthly, was discovered by Mrs. MARY B. EDDY, then of Lynn, Mass., in 1866. The leading features of her doctrine are that "everything is mind;" that there is but one mind which is GOD, and that "man is the idea of God." Our bodies and the things around, as; houses, trees, rocks, etc., all things composed of matter, do not really exist, but are only the ideas of the mind, something like the things in a dream. "Matter being unreal cannot feel or know anything, and hence cannot be sick, and mind being divine is perfect, and hence cannot be sick either. There can be no sickness in anything therefore, and what we call sickness is only belief. Hence, destroy the belief and sickness is destroyed also. Healing the sick and reforming the sinner are one and the same thing in "Christian Science." Death also is a mistake. The two parts of the name, "Christian Science," as enunciated by Mrs. EDDY, indicate that the doctrine has a mixed character. As to the genuineness of its Christianity the doctors of divinity are best qualified to decide. But Mrs. EDDY calls her system a healing science. If it really has the character of a science it will endure all the test that a genuine science will endure. If "Christian Science" is true, not only should cures always result when its precepts are followed, but when a part of the theory is disregarded, failure should result. Now, the "Christian Scientists" are continually making failures. Patients who have been treated a long time still have poor health. Our authority holds that if disease is thrown off at all it is by the aid of mental influence; that no special theory is necessary, or in other words, an accidental impression on the mind is sometimes sufficient to produce a cure. To illustrate, what an accidental impression will sometimes accomplish, the case is cited of a wealthy Pennsylvania farmer, whose wife had been bedridden for years. A Baptist minister visited the family, and the host showed him about the premises, pointing out this feature and that with the supplementary remark: "It's all paid for." Dinner time came, and the family with their guest gathered at the table. The clergyman was asked to say grace and began thus; "O Lord we thank thee for the abundance that is spread before us; we thank thee that it is all paid for." Here a sudden interruption came from the next room. The invalid hearing her husband's pet phrase put into a prayer burst into an incontrollable fit of laughter. Entirely forgetting her condition, she sprang out of bed and stood holding her sides and shaking with mirth when the family rushed into her apartment. That solemn joke cured her. Numerous other instances are cited of accidental mental impressions producing cures, notably among which we give that of a lady afflicted with lameness who was thrown into a stream, and that of a California lady who had become blind securing her eye sight on hearing the alarm of fire. If Mrs. EDDY's science were to become established, all that we now know as science would have to be abandoned. Not only would the science of physology which she directly attacks be destroyed, but the sciences of physical chemistry, zoology, botany, astronomy and geology would also be reduced to chaos, for these, together with physiology are based on observation and induction which Mrs. EDDY says we cannot trust. The genuine science of mental therapeutics is a very simple one. The theory is that mental impressions, however produced, act through the nervous system upon the various organs of the body. Great anxiety and grief causes loss of appetite, and may bring on an attack of dyspepsia or any other disease to which the person is liable. Fright turns hair gray, and jaundice may have a nervous origin. A hundred persons having been given sweetened water and subsequently told that they had taken an emetic, eighty of them immediately vomited. On the other hand of the tonic effects on a patient of hope, cheerfulness, and a determination to get well have been frequently remarked, and many intelligent physicians have made good use of such mental aids in practice. Dr. JOHN HUNTER writes, "that there is not a natural action in the body whether involuntary or voluntary that may not be influenced by the peculiar state of the mind at the time." The "Christian Science" craze, concludes our authority, will have its day and then die out, like the blue glass delusion and other crazes of like character. It will have done good, however, if it compels physicians to adopt mental healing, not as a panacea, but as an adution to the curative means now at their command. This done, the sooner Christian Science, as a distinct mode of treatment passes away, the better for all concerned.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The World asks why it is that such a spectacle as the quadruple hanging in New York fails in its deterrent effect on criminally minded people. It is the uncertainty of the law, the decline of the fear of something after death in this agnostic age. Yes, these have something to do with it, and by adding the doctrine of CHANCES the whole business is accounted for.

The modern tower of Babel seems in a fair way of being built in London. The project is assuming definite shape and will be two thousand feet high. The tower will be made by English or Scotch contractors and of English or Scotch steel. The tower will not be far from the Metropolitan Railway. No doubt the best site the promoters could obtain, and one they will naturally, probably, first look at would be the place where the great colonial and other exhibitions have been held in South Kensington, but this must depend upon the view that the exhibition commissioners, who are the owners of the South Kensington estate, take of this enterprise.

—Pope & Billau, druggists, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, write: "We have never sold any medicine that gives such satisfaction to the customer and pleasure to the seller as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. We can refer you to numbers that have used it for Diphtheria with entire satisfaction and success."

—Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure, and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you. *

—Photographs of the flight and explosion of dynamite cartridges are among the achievements of the instantaneous method of photography. How our grandfathers would have wondered at such pictures!

—The Electrician reports a rumor from Berlin to the effect that a means has been discovered of using electricity for ascertaining the true north, instead of the magnetic needle; that, in short, the new means will be superior to the compass and is likely to supercede it.

—Fourteen thousand tons of beets were crushed in the beet sugar factory of Claus Spreckels in California last season. The sugar from these beets weighed 1,640 tons. The farmers who entered upon beet culture netted an average of $35 an acre. Next season the production of beet sugar will be much larger.

—Artificial coffee-beans are a curiosity of the German market. They are made from roasted grain flour, with an addition of dextrine or similar surface, and the counterfeit is only detected by a critical examination. Two establishments offer for sale outfits claimed to make from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds of these beans each per day.

—The so-called "joss-sticks," the burning of which supplies incense for Chinese religious ceremonials, are made of the powdered leaves of Lindera fragrans, mixed with the powdered leaves of Biota. Lindera fragrans is a shrub of the true laurel family (Lauraceæ), and its Chinese name means "Incense Leaves."

—An electrical fire engine, which can be tapped for service whenever wanted, is the latest invention. The advantages claimed are that it can be started at full speed; that it is much lighter than a steam fire engine of equal power; that it costs one-third less; that it is noiseless in its operation; makes no smoke, sparks nor ashes; that it is safer and easier to control, and is economical.

—Dr. F. D. Reese, of Cortland, N. Y., writes to the Medical Record, describing the use of carbolized oil applied to the carbuncle and then covered with oakum, which had previously been saturated with the oil. Of a few cases of carbuncle treated in this way not one has run over two weeks. The disease has yielded to the carbolized oil and oakum treatment as by magic. He uses twenty per cent. solution.

—M. Ungerer, a French scientist, believes that flowers and the perfumes distilled from them has a salutary influence on the constitution, and, indeed, may be regarded as a therapeutic agency of high value. He says that residence in a perfumed atmosphere forms a protection from pulmonary affections and arrests the development of phthisis. He adds that in the town of La Grasse, where the making of perfumes is largely carried on, phthisis is rare, thanks to the odorous vapors exhaled from the many distilleries.

—For several years past fears have been freely expressed that the box forests of Europe are giving out, and that the engravers would suffer from the decreased supply. A new species has been discovered in South Africa, the wood of which is believed to be equal to its long-known relative, Buxus sempervirens. The new species has been named Buxus Macowani by Hooker. One forest covering fifteen square miles exists in the Buffalo River Valley, and smaller forests have been found near the coast. It sometimes has a trunk two feet thick.

—A very valuable insulating material, as it is regarded, is described in a French journal. It is composed of one part Greek pitch and two parts burned plaster, by weight, the latter being pure gypsum raised to a high temperature and plunged in water. This mixture, when hot, is a homogeneous viscous paste, and can be applied by a brush or cast in molds. It is amber colored, possesses the insulating properties of ebonite, and can be turned and polished. A peculiar advantage it possesses is the endurance of great heat and moisture without any injury to its insulating properties.

RAVAGES OF INSECTS.

How to Apply Insecticides so as to Secure Satisfactory Results.

Considerable interest has developed lately on the subject of applying insecticides, and it is very opportune. The pressing need of a better understanding of methods for successfully resisting the ravages of our insect enemies crowds upon us with increased vigor as the recurring seasons increase the number and rapacity of the foe. It has been very evident (to close observers at least) that a great part of the work done, especially in the use of poisonous compounds, has proved of actual damage; that is, the insects themselves would not have done more harm if left alone than the misuse of poison did. A treatment for insects that may do very well in a growing, productive season is liable to do great harm to the crops in an unfavorable one. To apply poisons effectively (without doing injury) and cheaply, is equally of importance.

After quite an extended experience in using insecticides in nearly all ways, I have decided that there is only one way in which satisfactory results can be reasonably expected every time, and that is by spraying. Poisons should be used in liquid form always, and in applying to the foliage, to insure success, it must be broken up into fine, misty spray, like fog or steam. To accomplish this desired result, there is nothing yet made to excel the spraying machine. It is built on simple, mechanical principles, and the amount of the application can be guaged perfectly. By the aid of one horse (or team) and man, this machine operates on four rows of potatoes at a time, delivering a fine, misty spray with force, penetrating every part of the plant and thoroughly impregnating the foliage with poison (but not drenching), so that if the larvæ feed on any portion they must get the poison. The danger of burning the leaves is greatly lessened. In fact, the plant can hardly be harmed if ordinary care is taken. I have sprayed eighty acres of potatoes in three days, using only $3.50 worth of London purple, and in thirty-six to forty-eight hours after the poison was put on hardly a slug could be found alive. The expedition and economy with which poisons can be applied in this way enables the grower to use weaker solutions often, and thus obviates all danger from doing harm to the growing crops.

The Colorado bugs bade fair to give us the most trouble we ever experienced during the dry season of 1887, yet by two timely applications of London purple by spraying, we succeeded in almost totally destroying them, without apparent damage to any part of the crop, at a cost of less than 50 cents per acre, including labor and poisons for the two jobs. I saw a great many fields of potatoes that were almost ruined that season by applying poisons in a careless manner, both in liquid and powder form. When potatoes bring 75 cents to $1 per bushel at harvest time, it is poor policy to ruin a crop by being short-sighted in any way. Wetting or drenching the vines with water alone during dry, hot weather is a dangerous experiment, and when the water is incorporated with active poisons and applied in a haphazard manner, it is most sure to do harm. The whole business of mixing and applying insecticides should be done in a systematic and methodical manner. Guess work will not pay. As Prof. W. B. Alwood has well said, in his station report on Insects and Insecticides: "Lack of exactness in the details often defeats the purpose of work with insecticides." Defeat is the price of carelessness or ignorance.—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHANCELLOR Browning, Commissioner for the C. P. R., has this, the 26th day of July, 1889, issued a proclamation warning all persons from purchasing lots from Samuel Greer, in Lot 526, Group One. Now, may it please Your Lordship, I have never offered for sale any lots in said Lot 526, for that would be deception on the public, as the highest legal authority in British Columbia pronounced the title to that lot straw—not one cent as consideration having been given. Now, if Your Lordship will adjust your wig, and recover from your deep studies of Blackstone and the laws of estoppel, you will be able to see that the four Judges who threw your case out of Court last April were fully able to comprehend the difference between 526 and Pre-emption Record 1002, this being the REGISTERED NUMBER of my land on English Bay. Come down and see us. I have a few corner lots (with a smattering of coal) yet left. I mean to sell, and the public will persist in buying them, notwithstanding Your Lordship's decision. Things will move just the same at English Bay.
All parties are hereby warned that Angus and Smith have no title to Lot 526 till confirmed by the Legislature, and all sales will be void.

PIES BY THE MILLION.

FACTORIES THAT PRODUCE THE GREAT AMERICAN STAPLE.

Fruit Peeled, Mincemeat Chopped and Dough Rolled by Powerful Machinery. Scores of Ovens Filled with Pies of All Sizes and Shapes.

Americans are great pie eaters, or have the reputation of being such, any way. For a great many years the consumption of these savory edibles has been looked upon as one of our most distinguished characteristics, and there is no doubt that there is good ground for this belief, for there is no place on the globe where the subject of pie making and pie eating has received so much attention.

And when it comes to pie eating, New York city is not behind the rest of the Union, for it is estimated that in this city there are consumed daily not less than 75,000 of these somewhat indigestible dainties!

FROM WHENCE COME THEY?

But where do they all come from? is a question that is frequently asked.

The majority of them are manufactured in small bakeries around town, but there are several concerns, each of which is kept going day and night, and produces from 15,000 to 25,000 pies of all sizes daily every day of the week, mounting into millions in the course of a year.

A reporter visited one of these immense pie factories. It is located on Sullivan street—not a very desirable locality, it would seem, but the interior was as neat as a pin.

It was surprising to see how every branch of the business was conducted. Everything moved along with really automatic precision.

The entire building is divided into separate departments. In one department the manufacture of mincemeat is carried on by machinery; in another the fruit is prepared, while in a third the immense quantity of dough that is used is made. The fruit is peeled by machinery and cut by hand.

In the room where the pies are made there are several long tables at which several men stand.

The dough is brought to them in large buckets holding about thirty pounds. A lump is then put on the table and rolled out, cut in small squares and laid on tin plates. These plates are then handed along to a man who stands ready, with knife in hand, to shave off the ends of the dough which hang over the outside of the plates.

The plates are then placed in rows in a wooden tray and taken to the fruit counter to receive their "insides." The men at the fruit counter hold a large wooden spoon in their hand, and as the tray comes before them they supply each pan liberally with fruit or sauce, as the case may be. The plates are then replaced on the trays and carried to another table, where they receive the top crust, after which they are put on an elevator and sent to the cellar, where they are baked.

There are a half score of ovens in this place, each of which will hold 400 four cent pies, or 126 fourteen cent pies. The four cent pies are retailed at five cents and the fourteen cent article sells for twenty cents.

It requires two men to run an oven; one man stands at the door of the oven and directs his partner where to put the next consignment. The man who places the pies in the oven holds in his hands a long, shovel like arrangement with a handle fifteen or twenty feet long. The pies are put on the shovel in couples and are then put in to bake.

This takes twenty minutes, and when finished the hot and juicy dainties are removed, put in cases and sent to the wagons.

FORTY WAGONS HAULING PIES.

There are many other details connected with the business that have not been spoken of. For instance, in one department seven women are employed all day long washing tin plates, which are dried by an improved steam apparatus.

The busiest time around the building is at 8 o'clock, when the hands go to work. There are not less than one hundred and ten people employed in the factory. They work until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and then leave, only to return at a corresponding hour the following morning.

The drivers begin to go out on their daily rounds at 4:30 o'clock in the morning, and all return by noon, for there is no sale for pies in the afternoon. It requires thirty-five wagons to supply the company's customers in New York, Jersey City and Brooklyn, and there are five more wagons in Newark, for Newark is also a great pie eating district.

There is no doubt but that this is the largest place of its kind in America. The manufacture of pies is not confined to any one size; there are small pies that sell for 5 cents, medium size that bring 10 cents and the large size that sell for 20 cents. In addition an immense quantity of "home made" pies, sold at 45 cents each, are manufactured for the accommodation of restaurant keepers.

There is every variety of pie, chief of which are apple, mince, peach, plum, lemon, cocoanut, rhubarb, pineapple and custard. Berry pies are made when berries are in season.

To manufacture such an immense stock it requires not less than 20 barrels of flour, 1,200 quarts of milk, 8,000 eggs, 5,000 pounds of lard, 12 barrels or about 4,000 pounds of sugar, besides all the fruit. There is more fruit used in the composition than anything else, and to show how much is used it is only necessary to say that twenty barrels of apples are used every day. Although there are only about 15,000 or 20,000 of these pies sold daily the factory could, if necessity arose, produce 25,000 a day.

But taking the average sales per day, say 17,500, it makes the weekly production (allowing six days to the week, for no work is performed on Sunday) 105,000; the monthly 455,000, and the yearly 5,477,500 pies.

And all this from only one pie foundry! Is it any wonder that the Americans are a race of dyspeptics?—New York Evening World.

BARGAIN DAY.

Why the Lady Failed to Match Her Napkins and Dress Goods.

"Bargain day" is productive of all sorts of annoyances. In a large store the bargains are confined to only a few of the departments, and the purchaser who does not secure all she wants of a thing, deciding to come at another time and get more if she needs it, generally gets left. To illustrate: A lady bought a half dozen napkins at a bargain. She concluded a few days after that they were quite pretty, and as six would be scarcely enough to go round for "company," she would get as many more. Back she goes to the store, but when she comes to buy them she finds the price is marked up fifteen or twenty-five cents above what she paid. She protests, and after ruffling the temper of the clerks and working herself into a mild fury the fact finally comes to the surface that she made her purchase on "bargain day." Out she flounces, determined to wait for another bargain day, and she daily watches the advertising columns of the papers for bargain day at this particular store. It appears on the next Friday or Monday, and without stopping to observe that the department in which she is interested is not included in the bargain sales, away she goes, puffing and blowing, her whole soul bent on getting another half dozen of those napkins. Arrived at the store, she learns to her disgust that there are no bargains at that counter that day. She expresses her disgust, too, and lowers at the poor clerks just as if it were all their fault.

Having had her say there, she goes into the dress goods department and buys, say eight yards of a peculiar shade of blue goods, and then goes home with the satisfaction that, if she didn't get the napkins, she at least got a bargain in a dress. Next bargain day she appears at the store again, this time to get a couple more yards of "that dress I got here last week," she says to the young lady behind the counter, and really thinks it unpardonable ignorance on the part of the girl that she does not only not remember her, but also the particular piece of goods from which she bought her dress. With a "What do they keep such people in stores for!" query, she produces a sample of the goods. The young woman examines the sample and informs her that that particular goods is all gone.

"Well, but I want that and nothing else," she says.

"It is entirely out of stock," replies the girl.

"But I must have it," she says, with some firmness.

She is again told that it is not in stock. Then she makes a straight dive for a floor walker, and lays her complaint before him. The young lady who was so discourteous (?) as to not sell her what was not in stock is called up. She explains, and then the woman is informed that they will probably have some more of it in a few days. But she is not satisfied. She wanders away, and tells a cash boy she wants to see the manager. The boy goes for the manager. In a moment he returns with the very man she made complaint to. She looks at him, exclaims herself, and goes back to the napkin department. Napkins are still high, and she goes home mad, and declares she will not patronize such a house again—never.

A few days more roll around and she makes up her mind she will go and pay the regular price for a half dozen more napkins to complete her set. But her determination to get a bargain has blocked her. Those particular napkins are all gone—"just sold the last of them this morning," the clerk says to her, and expresses great sorrow at her disappointment. To say that she is now furious would hardly express it. She deliberately makes a show of herself and then flounces out, with the inward satisfaction of having told them what she thought of the whole lot.—New York Star.

Postage Stamp Curiosities.

A certain well known gentleman in the city owns a valuable collection of postage stamps which has taken him twelve years to get together. "My collection isn't complete," he said, with a sigh, "and it never will be. Why? Because it would require $100,000 to make it so. There are about 6,000 different descriptions of postage stamps in existence. The museum of the Berlin postoffice alone contains between 4,000 and 5,000 specimens, of which half are from Europe and the remainder divided between Asia, Africa, America and Australia. Some of the stamps bear a coat of arms and other emblems, impartially borrowed from the heavens above, the earth beneath and the waters under the earth, stars, eagles, lions, horses, serpents, railway trains, dolphins and other fearful wild fowl. There are, moreover, the vignette effigies of five emperors, eighteen kings, three queens, one grand duke and many presidents. Some of these stamps cannot be purchased for $5,000, while others cannot be purchased for any sum. I tell you the life of a stamp collector isn't unlike that of Tantalus."—Cincinnati Commercial.

Styles in Shoes.

Button and lace shoes are not only going out of style, but out of use. The only thing that can save the lace shoe will be the invention of a fastening for the ends of the laces which will do away with the tie and at the same time be popular. There have been several inventions of this kind, but none of them were practical. The principal trouble with the gaiter hitherto has been the bad quality of the rubber used in the sides or gores. These are now being made with a new kind of rubber, invented by a Connecticut man, called "kelgum." It is made of vegetable oils, and is said to be much more durable than the rubber that has been used. The gaiter is popular because it can be put on and taken off so much more rapidly than the other styles of shoe, and physicians recommend its wearing because it does not weaken the ankle as the lace and button shoes do.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Honeycomb in a Tree for Fifty Years.

A remarkable discovery has been made at the Cathays yard of the Taff Vale Railway company. A large elm tree, grown in Gloucestershire, was being cut up into timber, when, right in the very heart, a cavity measuring 3 feet by 7½ inches in diameter was discovered almost completely filled with the comb of th. honey bee, together with a squirrel's skull. No means of access to the hollow was discoverable, neither was decay anywhere apparent, and around the cavity itself no less than fifty "rings," each ring denoting a year's growth, were counted, the outer bark being, too, without a flaw. The hollow was of uniform size throughout, and presented the appearance of having been bored with a auger, and, great though its dimensions were, it was practically filled with the comb, proving that the bees must have been in possession for several years.

Empty combs of the queen bee also showed that they had swarmed. How the bees got there can only be guessed, but it is surmised that a squirrel once occupied a decayed hole in the tree, cleared away the decay, occupied the cavity as its home and there died. Then the bees entered into possession, and filled the hole with comb, when by some means the entrance, which must have been small, became stopped, the large quantity of grub and fly being taken as demonstrative that the nest was not voluntarily deserted. Then for fifty years the growth of the timber went on. The entrance being obliterated and the hole hermetically sealed the comb was preserved from decay for half a century, to be found at last in the way described.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Why She Was Late.

"You are late this afternoon," said the music teacher to his fanged and pondered young lady pupil.

"Yes," said the damsel, swishing down on the music stool. "Ma was so busy with her household duties that I had to wait nearly half an hour for her to sew up a rip in one of my kid gloves."—Norristown Herald.

The Koran says that God gave the Gospel to Jesus to proclaim, and that He put kindness and compassion into the hearts of those that followed Him; but "as for the monastic life, they invented it themselves." "In the time of Mohammed," says one of my friends, "Christianity had become corrupt, as many of your own writers admit, and it was these corruptions that it was Mohammed's mission to reform. We reject the corruptions of Christianity. But we claim to have a final revelation, predicted by your own prophets, just as the coming of the Messiah was foretold to the Jews, who nevertheless blindly rejected him as you reject Mohammed."—Leaves from an Egyptian Note Book.

Why the Bear Got Mad.

Said Mr. Southmaid: "When a man goes out after them he wants to be sure that his ammunition is all right. Three weeks ago I was out gunning for birds and happened to run across a big black bear. He was about ten yards away, standing on a log and looking at me in the most impertinent manner.

"I always carry a couple of buckshot cartridges in my coat pocket for just such occasions. Breaking open my gun, I extracted the cartidges of small shot, kept my eye on the bear and inserted two shells from my left pocket.

"Then I confidently blazed away at his head. He didn't tumble over as he ought to have done, but snarled wickedly and made a break for me. Without retreating a step I let him have the other barrel, but that didn't stop him worth a cent.

"About that time I began to suspect that there was some hitch in my combination, and when he knocked the gun out of my hand I inferred that it was time for me to get away. You ought to have seen me go. I guess he would have won the race if it hadn't been for a big split bowlder in the track. The split was just wide enough for me to get through, and I went through there lively. He reached out and got a piece of my shirt, but he stuck fast in the cleft long enough for me to get 100 yards the start, and then I was safe.

"When I got home I found two buckshot cartridges safe and snug in my side pocket. I must have dropped two other shells in with them absentmindedly, and it was just my luck to grab the light loads when I wanted big shot. I had peppered that old bear in the face with quail shot, and I don't blame him for getting mad. I was mad myself when I found it out."—San Francisco Examiner.

A Pleasant Punishment.

I have among my acquaintances a young lady who teaches school in the primary grade. She has a lot of little ones under her care, and she has prided herself on her discipline and the excellent order she was able to maintain. The other day she started to leave the schoolroom for a moment and had only just reached the door when she was startled by a great laugh which came from the whole school room. She turned and looked at her scholars in amazement, and the thought flashed over her that maybe there was something on her back or that a portion of her skirt drapery had become disarranged. But she faced the school and speedily subdued the numerous lingering snickers.

"Whoever caused that laugh will please stand up. I insist upon it—at once."

She meant business, and the little tots all saw it. Nobody moved for about a minute, and then a little brown eyed boy of 7 years, who sat behind a pretty little golden haired miss of 6, tremblingly stood up.

The teacher looked at him in astonishment. He was one of her pets.

"Johnny, what did you do to make the whole school laugh like that?"

"I—kissed—Lilly—Seton," hesitatingly confessed the youngster, with a shy glance at the golden curls and the blushing face bent low over a primer.

"I could hardly keep my own face straight," said the teacher, when telling about it, "but I summoned up all the severity I could muster and ordered them both to stay in after school to be punished."

I asked how she punished them.

"I made them kiss each other again," she declared, triumphantly, "and I enjoyed it immensely. So did they."—Chicago Mail.

Old Hickory and the Children.

The ways of Gen. Jackson and his wife were uniformly those of "pleasantness and peace," and all the little folk received the gentlest of treatment. To be sure the general was gruff and peremptory among men, and Mrs. Jackson smoked a cob pipe. But what did it matter to the children, so long as Mrs. Jackson was willing to sit wedged three in a rocking chair, and Mrs. Jackson would tell them frontier stories every evening in the firelight? Mr. Parton gives the account of a traveler who arrived at the Hermitage one wet, chilly February evening:

"I came upon Gen. Jackson sitting alone before the fire, a lamb and a child between his knees. Seeing me, he called a servant to remove the two innocents to another room, and said the child had cried because the lamb was out in the cold, and begged him to bring it in, which he had done to please the child."

A member of the family said to me lately that there were possibly fifty children, white and black, in the family and about the neighborhood named "Andrew," or "Rachel," and to each of these the general gave a gift or a remembrance in some way, and liked them all. He gave away dozens of Bibles and silver cups to namesakes, and on one of his trips from the Hermitage to the capital he distributed 150 silver half dollars to mothers as they brought little "Andrews" or "Rachels" to him along the route. To each he made a little speech, saying:

"This half dollar will serve the little one to cut their teeth on now, but when they are older, tell them it

A Character.

Uncle Lot Benton, with whom Lyman Beecher spent his boyhood, is described as a man having "strong feelings hidden under a don't care look, yet spilling over at the corner of his eye." A kindly man, he yet preferred to show the roughest side of his character first. If a neighbor came to borrow a hoe, Uncle Lot would say:

"Why don't ye have boss o' your own? What d'ye lung on to your neighbors for?" Then as the borrower was going away he would call, "Here, come back! Take the hoe, can't ye! You'll break it, I s'pose!"

Uncle Lot had a plow of his own making, a clumsy, heavy thing, patched with old hoes and pieces of iron to keep it from wearing out. Like most people, however, he had a great fondness for the work of his own hand, and one day, when the boy had driven the ox team so as to graze it with a wheel, he called:

"There, there, Lyman, you've run over that plow, and broke it all to pieces!"

"Why, Uncle Lot, I haven't touched the plow!"

"Well, I'd a great deal rather you had than have gone so plaguey nigh it!" was the inconsistent response.—Youth's Companion.

—A London chemist, in an analysis of the tea we drink, found that it contained "nut-galls, iron filings, filbert husks, sulphate of copper, hornets' nests, acetic acid, green paint, tar rope, desiccated door-mats, ammonia, stable sweepings, etc." This would seem to disprove the general belief that tea is adulterated, unless something of the kind may lurk in that suspicious, "etc."—Norristown Herald.

—A New York dude went to a celebrated doctor to be examined, as his health was on the wane. The physician examined the young man carefully and said: "I find your heart is affected." "Anything else, doctor?" "Yes, your lungs are slightly affected." "Anything else about me that is affected?" "Yes, your manners are also affected."

WEDDING BELLS.

STRAITH-MAGIRL.

One of those pleasing events which are always looked forward to with great interest transpired on Monday evening, when Mr. John A. Straith, of this city, led to the altar Miss Annie Magirl, also of Victoria. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. C. Magirl, who gave the bride away, Rev. Father Van Nevel tying the nuptial knot. The blushing bride looked beautiful in a pearl white satin en train, with orange blossoms, veil and diamond ornaments. Miss Lucy Magirl officiated as bridesmaid, being attired in white mauve cream, with colored lace, pink ribbon and ornaments of pearl. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. T. Bell McAndrew, of this city. After the ceremony the invited guests partook of the wedding feast, and shortly after the table was cleared and the light fantastic was tripped until the "wee sma' hours." The happy young couple will leave to-morrow on their wedding tour to San Francisco and other points, after which they will settle down in Victoria.

HAWTON-WARD.

On Sunday morning a quiet but happy wedding party left the residence of the bride and proceeded to the St. John's parsonage, where Rev. Percival Jenns tied the marriage knot for John Hawton, of the city police force, and Mrs. C. Ward. After the ceremony the party returned home and a wedding breakfast was partaken of. The best wishes of a host of friends are held out to the happy pair.

C. P. R. Shares.

C. P. R shares sold yesterday in London for 65¼. This is about the highest point the stock ever reached.

Big Black Bears.

James Fisher, the marble cutter of Fort street, this city, shot two large black bears out at the Sooke range the other day. One of the animals was of over the average size and is said to be the largest ever killed in this vicinity. Next.

Inspecting Coal Lands.

Mr. W. H. McNeil and Mr. W. J. Watkins of the Oregon Improvement Company, and party left Nanaimo by the Belle yesterday morning to inspect coal lands in the vicinity of Comox. They expect to be absent until the end of the week.

Real Estate.

Real estate men report business as quite active. There is a good demand for lots and they are held at strong prices. In cheap residential property Victoria West takes the lead. Mr. Frank Richards reports the sale of seven lots there yesterday.

A Denial.

The captain of the bark Hustede, who a few days ago became involved in a dispute with the Admiral, called at THE TIMES office to-day and stated that the item in Monday's TIMES in reference to the time limit for unloading coal, etc., was wholly incorrect. There we let the matter rest.

Library Record.

The following is the excellent record of the public library for the month of August. Total books lent, 1217; to ladies, 465; to gentlemen, 752; of these were novels, 307 to ladies and 394 to gentlemen; other than novels, 158 to ladies and 358 to gentlemen. Number of readers, ladies, 211; gentlemen, 364; total, 575.

Fatal Accident.

Last month one of the boat's crew of the sealing schooner Ariel, after a day's hunt, found themselves too far from their vessel and made for the schooner Lottie. In getting on board the schooner a gun was accidentally discharged whereby one of the Japanese crew was struck, from the effects of which he died next day.

Bank of B. C. at Seattle.

The Bank of British Columbia has decided to open a branch at Seattle, Washington Territory. Eligible quarters have been secured and Mr. J. Keith Wilson, at present accountant of the bank in this city, has been appointed manager of the Seattle branch. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside permanently at Seattle, much to the regret of their numerous friends here.

Opened for a Trial.

The draw of the new Rock Bay bridge was opened for the first time on Monday. The trial was merely to test the working of the mechanism by which the "draw" is operated. It was found at the trial that one man could easily swing the bridge, everything going smoothly.

Wrist Broken.

A painful accident happened to Mr. Mike Conlin yesterday, while on the way to town from a hunting expedition at Sooke. One of the wheels of the express wagon in which he was riding ran into a rut which threw him from his seat, and falling to the ground his left wrist was broken in the attempt to save himself.

Naval.

The Acorn took on board 115 tons of coal while at San Francisco and was to have sailed Thursday for Esquimalt. She is therefore due, but not over-due.

While H. M. S. Acorn was at San Francisco last Tuesday, an able-bodied seaman named Charles Jones died on board. He was buried the next day in Laurel Hill cemetery, San Francisco.

The Chilian sloop of war, Pilcomayo, arrived at San Francisco last Friday from Esquimalt.

Put it in Shape.

Drake, Jackson & Helmcken's new brick block, corner Bastion and Langley streets has been completed for nearly a fortnight, but the sidewalk fronting is still in an awful state of mixedness, a mortar bed, a pile of bricks, half empty lime barrels, carpenter's horses and other rubbish having been left behind, while the walk itself has not been levelled down but is as full of hills and valleys as the world famed sea of mountains. It would be to the convenience of pedestrians to have the same looked to and put in order at once.

The Concert To-night.

The arrangements for the above concert have been completed, all the soloists are on hand for the second part. The rehearsal of the cantata last night was very satisfactory, the choruses going smoothly. The soloists in the cantata are well up in their selections, and the concert promises to be a great success. In order to secure good seats, those who intend being present should make a point of being there early. Doors are open at 7:30. Concert at 8 p.m. sharp. Mr. Brown is noted for his punctuality in starting his concerts and the absence of hitches or delays during the evening, and this should be no exception to the rule.

1889-90

For the fall and winter trade of 1889-90 Messrs. A. Gregg & Son, Artist Tailors, Yates street, have just received a large and well selected stock of imported woollens, comprising Scotch and English tweeds, fine worsted diagonals, new novelties in trousering and a large range of the most fashionable shades and designs of light and heavy overcoatings. Right here we wish to impress on the minds of the gentlemen of this province that this stock was never surpassed by any heretofore imported to this province, these being the same goods as those sold by foreign manufacturers for the New York trade. Messrs. A. Gregg & Son invite an inspection of these goods.

Blood Poisoning.

John Elliott died at Nanaimo on Saturday night of blood poisoning. The deceased is well known in this city, where he was employed for some years at Mr. Henry Mansell's boot and shoestore. His mother, now Mrs. Wonnacott, resides here, also his brother Mr. Anthony Elliott. He leaves a widow and three children.

The deceased has been ailing for some time, and at the Seattle fire, he overexerted himself in his exertions to save the stock of his employers, which brought on quinsy, followed by blood poisoning, resulting fatally yesterday morning. He was 33 years of age.

Unfortunate Ignorance.

The young man Miller who was sent up for two months this morning by the police magistrate for inducing a sailor from the navy to desert, seems to be an unfortunate victim of circumstances. He has been working at Lulu Island all summer, travelling with a threshing machine, and was on his way across the Sound this morning to get work in the hop fields. He picked up with the sailor, and not knowing the law, agreed to help that worthy away. The police arrested the pair, and now Miller has to suffer for his ignorance. Had it not been for the intercession of Supt. of Police Sheppard, a term of six months would probably have been imposed, but as the young man has always had a good character, the lowest legal punishment was inflicted.

Victoria Choral Society.

All members, and those who wish to be allied with the above society, are requested to attend a business meeting at Mr. Goodwin's piano rooms, corner of Fort and Broad streets, to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year and business, both financial and musical, will be discussed. We hope that the success of last year will not make the members dilatory in responding to the summons of the committee. A hearty welcome will be accorded to all lovers of music who wish to become members. We expect this year the society will be twice as large as last, and everything points to a successful season. New works will be performed for the first time on the Pacific coast.

Fair Sports.

Two young ladies belonging to this city are camped in the vicinity of Shawnigan lake. They left the city on Saturday for a week in the woods and the sounds of their trusty rifles can be heard from early morn until twilight. On Saturday afternoon, a young hunter from this city called at the camp, and was more than pleased when asked to teach the ladies how to shoot. After practicing at a mark for a short time the fair bear-hunters succeeded in making better shooting than their teacher. On Monday morning two more hunters reached the camp, and their game bags when they reached the city to-day contained a solitary grouse. Their excuse for such poor sport was that they supplied their lady friends with enough game to last during the stay in the woods. The fair huntresses will return next Saturday with their game.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the board of aldermen was called in the mayor's office last night. With the mayor in the chair, several items to be introduced in the sewerage by-law were considered.

The first motion was to make the loan $400,000 to bear interest at 4 per cent, and to extend over a period of 50 years, was carried.

A motion to give the city the right to borrow $100,000 at any time after three months' notice, from the debenture holders, was also carried.

A motion was also made and carried, that a special tax may be imposed on property along the line of the sewerage at a rate sufficient to cover the expense of laying the sewer.

Some minor business was done, and the meeting adjourned.

Marine.

The steamer Bithet brought down from the Fraser last night 3310 cases of salmon—2000 from Ewen's cannery and 1310 from the British American. The whole will be shipped to Melbourne, Australia, leaving here on the Mexico.

The ship Georgine, Capt. Stanley, which has been lying in the roads for the past two weeks, was towed to Gig Harbor to-day where she will load lumber for Sydney, N. S. W.

The steamer Daisy arrived from Chemainus this morning with a scow load of poles for the Electric Tramway Co.

The steamer Emma, from the northern canneries, is at the C.P.N. Co.'s wharves.

American steamer Brick, from San Juan Island, came in this morning with fruit and poultry.

The steamer Badger, with a load of lumber from Sooke, arrived in this morning.

FROM THE NORTH.

The Boscowitz Arrives With a Full Cargo of Salmon.

The steamer Barbara Boscowitz, Capt. Williams, arrived from northern ports at 7 o'clock this morning, twelve days having been consumed in making the round trip. During the entire passage rain was met with and the weather chilly.

The passengers arriving were Mrs. Chas. Todd and daughter, Dr. Bean, A. J. McLellan, B. Stapleton, J. A. Carthew and ten others, besides eighty-six Chinese and ten Indians.

The Boscowitz was loaded down to her utmost capacity, having brought down 6,000 cases of salmon—3,000 from the Wannuck cannery, and 3,000 from the North Pacific Canning Co's cannery, also 90 barrels of salmon and 25 half bbls.

The only cannery still fishing was Spencer's at Alert Bay, who had about 6,000 cases packed. At Naas the steamer Princess Louise was met.

FOR TUMBO ISLAND.

A Heavy Air Compressor to be Used at the Mines.

A heavy air compressor is lying at Spratt & Gray's works awaiting transhipment to Tumbo Island, where it will be used at the mines, compressing air for the rock drills. The clyinder of the compressor is 14 inches by 30, and will generate power for a large number of drills. Its weight is about eleven tons. It is to be geared up from the main winding engines, delivering the compressed air at a pressure of 80 pounds to the inch. The work of fitting up the machine has been done at the works and shows that heavy machinery can be dealt with.

OTHER WORK.

A new crank shaft for the steamer Barbara Boscowitz is in the lathe at the same shop. It has been necessary to order a new shaft for the steamer, the old one having become cracked.

A peculiar piece of machinery is an apparatus for making Burris' patent buildings. The construction of this has been in the hands of Spratt & Gray and a very well finished piece of work has been turned out. It will be put to work shortly.

INFRACTIONS OF GAME LAW.

Local People Pay Solid Fines in the Provincial Court.

In the provincial police court this morning, before Messrs. Robt. Ward and A. J. Langley, J.'s P., John H. Gannon was charged with having two cock and three hen pheasants in his possession, contrary to law. Defendant pleaded guilty.

Provincial Officer Graham gave evidence of having found the birds in a bag which had been in the possession of defendant.

Geo. Stelley was also charged with having in his possession pheasants, contrary to law. Defendant pleaded not guilty.

Officer Graham gave evidence, but it did not go to show that defendant had been in possession of the birds, and by request of the prosecution the case was withdrawn.

Chas. A. Vernon was charged, on remand, with shooting grouse on the 12th of August, the same being illegal, as it was the close season at the time. Defendant pleaded guilty to the charge, stating that he did not wish to put the court to any unnecessary trouble.

C. P. Bloomfield, special provincial officer, gave evidence of the defendant having admitted that he had shot two blue grouse; also proved service of summons.

Defendant stated to the court that Mr. Bloomfield had treated him very unfairly, having come to the camp and talked as a friend, while he, defendant, was not aware that Mr. Bloomfield was an officer. Mr. Bloomfield had also asked that defendant try to persuade his brother, Hon. Forbes Geo. Vernon, to get him, Bloomfield, the position of superintendent of provincial police; Bloomfield had also drank defendant's whiskey and behaved as a friend—

The court at this point told the defendant to confine himself to the facts of the case. On continuing, defendant stated that he did not intend to transgress the law. He thought as the birds were out in a wild spot that it would be no harm to shoot them; that as for the report he had shot deer out of season, he denied it in toto. He assured the court that he would not offend again.

The court considered the question of punishment, and in Gannon's case a fine of $25 and $12 costs, or 21 days imprisonment was imposed. The fine was paid, the defendant asking for the dead pheasants, which had been produced in the court as evidence. This application was refused, as the birds have to be destroyed by the police in accordance with the act.

In C. A. Vernon's case, a fine of $25 and $5 costs was also imposed.

Just as the court was being adjourned, Mr. E. M. Johnson entered the room and stated that he wished to lay an information against C. P. Bloomfield for shooting deer out of season. He was told that a regular information would have to be sworn out before a J. P., which course he intimated would be taken.

A VICTORIA CAPTAIN

Imparts Some Useful Information to the New York Herald.

Capt. John G. Cox, who left for the east a few days ago to bring out his family, was interviewed while in New York by a New York Herald reporter. He told the reporter that reports had been spread throughout the United States calculated to confuse the public mind and to entrap the United States government into an untenable position.

PUBLIC OPINION MISLED.

Capt. Cox said: "False reports in regard to our method of capturing seals have been spread by the Alaska Commercial Company. They say that Victoria schooners capture about 30,000 seals annually, and in capturing those that we slaughter three hundred thousand. In other words that only one out of ten killed are taken on board the schooner, the balance being lost." "Now," said he, "there is not the slightest truth in this statement. About six per cent of the seals shot at by the hunters escape. A number of those escaping are only slightly wounded and recover. Besides a seal, when wounded badly, like any other animal breathes fast, and therefore has to come quickly to the surface and is almost sure to be killed speedily by a second or third shot."

"Another charge is that in Behring sea we—the Victoria sealers—slaughter female seals with their pups, and so deprived of its mother, the pup dies. Now, on questioning many hunters engaged in this business I am assured that they never have met a single instance of a cow and calf at such a distance from the seal islands as our vessels hunt. Our schooners hunt for seals at from 30 to 100 miles from "Seal Rookeries," the breeding place of the seals.

OPEN SEASON VERSUS CLOSED SEA.

"More than this, I have a number of affidavits, taken from hunters and captains engaged in sealing, declaring that they have never seen a female seal and pup or calf while in the prosecution of their business."

"All these misrepresentations are made by the Alaska Commercial Company," continued Captain Cox, "for the purpose of obtaining the sympathy of the press. Doubting their ability to obtain a closed sea, they are lending their energies at the sacrifice of truth, toward obtaining a close season. If the sealing schooners can be excluded from Behring Sea, between the months of June and September, that would secure to the Alaska Commercial Company all the advantages of a closed sea, for the reason that seals during the rest of the year, do not frequent those waters in numbers sufficient to pay for catching them."
